Give a Hoot About Saving™

CREDIT UNIONS CELEBRATE YOUTH™

The first step to teaching kids about money is talking about it with them.

On his blog, personal-finance guru Dave Ramsey encourages parents to be open with their kids about money. Being honest in an age-appropriate way, he said, can be a powerful lesson.

So how can you start the talk? Ramsey suggests:

- Ask questions. If you're going out to eat, talk about the price difference between the options, and ask them which they would choose. If they select the more expensive meal, talk through what you might have to give up later in the week.
- Make them part of your budgeting. If you're doing any kind of financial planning for the year, solicit input from your kids. Enlist them in your saving goals - no one watches you more closely than your kids, so they're natural accountability partners!
- Open a youth savings account. This is the best way to help them to learn to save for what they find meaningful in life. A lifetime of good savings habits can start now!
